Students at Western Like Kentucky Courses

Many Enroll in Classes Devoted to Study of State's Main Features

Bowling Green, Ky., July 8.—Last summer there was inaugurated at the Western State Teachers' College here a series of courses which were calculated to aid the summer school teachers in learning more about their native state. These courses proved very popular last summer and have been continued this summer with the same success.

These "Learn Kentucky" courses being offered this session of the summer school are: Kentucky's Native Plants and Flowers, The Literature of Kentucky, Kentucky's Wild Animal Life, The Geography of Kentucky and History of Kentucky. There are a large number of students enrolled in each of these classes at the present time. They are proving to be the most popular courses offered in the summer school.

Miss King Will Attend Columbia This Summer

Miss Taylor, Assistant Librarian, Also Leaves for New York

Miss Margaret I. King, librarian of the university, will leave today for New York City where she will attend Columbia University the remainder of the summer. She will return to Lexington in time to resume her duties at the opening of the regular session.

Miss Artie Lee Taylor, assistant librarian of the university, felt Lexington last Sunday night for New York where she entered the Teachers' College of Columbia University. While in New York she will spend most of her time studying and working in the library at the Teachers' College. She will return to the university early in September.

Do Good Work

Junior Club Products Have High Value

As an indication of the value of the junior agricultural clubs in Kentucky the following figures have been compiled:

The 20,000 junior agricultural club boys and girls in Kentucky produced $325,384 worth of farm and home products last year, according to a report of the club department of the College of Agriculture.

Vegetables and fruits canned by junior home-making clubs were valued at $24,469, and garments made by similar clubs at $25,469. Farm products were valued as follows: Corn, $10,133; alfalfa hay, $600; potatoes, $6,588; tobacco, $9,420; baby beef calves, $45,025; hogs, $62,345; sheep, $39,390; poultry, $59,654 and dairy stock owned by club members was valued at $42,025.

While junior club work is conducted primarily for educational purposes, yet it has become of great financial value, as the above figures show. Hundreds of boys and girls are not only receiving through club work valuable training in the best methods and practices of farming and home-making, but also are accumulating bank accounts. Many of them are using club work to help pay their way through school.

Birkett Pribble, who will fit into Gamage's program at one position or another, needs no introduction. Shively's 216 pounds drifted in after a lengthy, dusty automobile ride. The Illinois big boy and Mrs. Shively are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gamage at the present time.

EDITS PAPER

KYLE WHITEHEAD EDITS NEW PAPER

Graduate of University and Former Instructor Here Publishes The College News for Murray Students

TO APPEAR SEMI-MONTHLY

Under the supervision of Charles Kyle Whitehead, member of the class of 1926 of the university and former instructor in the journalism department here, the first issue of The College News, official publication of Murray State Teachers' College, made its appearance the latter part of June of this year. The new publication will be issued semi-monthly.

While a student at the University of Kentucky, Whitehead took an active part in the journalistic enterprises of the student body, twice serving as business manager of The Kernel. Following his graduation he became an instructor in the journalism department. He left the university last February to accept a position as director of publicity and instructor of journalism at the Murray school.

The College News is the first official newspaper at the Murray State Teachers' College, and in its publication is said to lie the realization of the dreams of the president and dean of the college.

The Murray publication consists of four pages of six columns of standard length. The initial number was filled with interesting news of college and student life, comments on local problems, etc.

Many old friends of Mr. Whitehead are interested in the announcement recently received here which told of his engagement to Miss Ava Cawood, of Asheville, N. C., who was graduated from the university in the class of 1925. The marriage is to take place in August.

DIRECTORY

In last week's Kernel there was printed the names of students enrolled in the College of Education for the first session of summer school. Continuing the plan begun last week in order that summer session students may know what former friends are now in school, The Kernel is printing herewith the names and addresses of students enrolled in the Graduate School and the College of Arts and Sciences. Following are the names, home addresses, and Lexington addresses of students enrolled in the Graduate School and the College of Arts and Sciences:

Few Students Are Qualified to Study for the Law Profession

By CHARLES J. TURCK
Dean of the Law College of the University and President-elect of Centre College

It is an impossible task to select out of one hundred college students the five or ten who should study law. In the first place, while a young man in college has within him those traits of character that will make or mar his manhood, he does not have these characteristics so developed that one can predict with certainty the kind of man he will be. In the second place, the law is so broad a field that it contains within the ranks of those who attain success men of very different types, men who are hermits in their zeal for exact and scholarly knowledge as well as men whose hearts are aflame with a love of humanity. In the third place, those great qualities of the soul that enable men to win like success as engineers or doctors or business men. "Every calling is great when greatly pursued," and young men who are capable of the great pursuit will win success in any field.

The great question that young man must ask himself in college is, "What do I want to do with my life?" He knows by the time he graduates what are the things that bring him the largest happiness. Is it books or friends, is it power or play, is it the hope of a great achievement or the carrying of a great responsibility? He also knows, or should at least begin to suspect, what are his chances of accomplishing his purpose. This is of course not a matter of comparing his grades with the grades of others but of comparing himself with other selves. How does he stack up with them as regards leadership and perseverance and ability and willingness to see a job through? Then, with some notion of the things that bring him happiness and some recognition of his relative chance for success, the young man in college can make his guess as to the field where he should work. And his guess is far more likely to be a good guess than any suggestion that may come from outsiders. He must find his own star and hitch his wagon to it.

Difficulties Obstruct Path
The very best thing that a man in a profession can do for those who are considering that profession as their life work is to warn them of certain difficulties they must meet. It is easy enough to tell a young man of limited powers of reason that he will never make a lawyer, but it is a much harder task to tell him what he would make or what he could do happily and well. It is wiser to point out difficulties than to erect barriers, and consequently I would not say to any man that he should not study law. Many a man of limited natural endowment has made a career at the bar which far able men have envied.

Program to Close

Redpath Chautauqua Will Give Four More Performances on Stoll Field; Final Number Will Be Saturday Night When "The Patsy," a Great American Comedy, Will Be Given

Only four more programs remain to be given by the Redpath chautauqua which has been giving performances on Stoll field since last Saturday. A musical program will be featured this afternoon and tonight. The night program will be augmented by a lecture "Mussolini and the Blackshirts," by Tom Skehill.

Tomorrow afternoon will be the "children's gala program" featuring the great Laurant in "A Trip to Magic Land." At night "The Patsy," a great American comedy, with a New York cast, will be presented. This play, it is said is one of the best numbers of the chautauqua which has been playing here.

Large crowds, including hundreds of university students, have attended every program of the chautauqua the past week. Special provisions were provided for students, a portion of the seats being reserved for them. This was necessary to enable those who had afternoon classes to obtain desirable seats.

Among the programs which attracted unusually large audiences was the play, "The Goose Hangs High." This play, dealing with the college student and the home, was especially interesting to students. There was "standing room only" when the curtain went up for the first act.

Bohumir Kryl and his band attracted large crowds Thursday afternoon and night. The concert by this famous musical organization was declared by many to be one of the best musical treats of the whole chautauqua program.

There were several famous lecturers on the program. Among them was Ruth Owen Bryan, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan. She lectured on Wednesday, night on "Modern Arabian Nights."

The Coffey-Miller players which gave two performances in the men's gymnasium of the university on last Friday afternoon and night appeared before large audiences. Their plays were greatly enjoyed by university students just as they have been on other appearances which they have made at the university at previous summer sessions.

PROF. H. G. PARKINSON ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Specialist in Rural Education
Delivers Daily Lectures on
"Rural School Problems, Present and Future"

MR. BLACKWELL TO SPEAK

Professor Harry G. Parkinson, of Pennsylvania, a specialist on rural education, delivered daily lectures this past week before the class in modern educational problems which meets the fifth hour. His theme was "The Rural School Problem, Its Present and Future." A number of other students and visitors attended the education class meetings in order to hear the noted speaker.

Professor Parkinson is a graduate of Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa., and of the University of Illinois. He is a candidate for a doctor's degree at Cornell University. He is head of the department of rural education in Pennsylvania and was a member of the commission appointed by Governor Pinchot to study rural problems. Superintendent Thomas Finnegan made him chairman of the commission to work out the problem of education for the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was appointed a member of the research commission by the American Vocational Association to work on an effective program of agricultural education in America.

Professor Parkinson is trying to analyze the ability of the rural school system to pay for its schools and to determine whether or not it can provide satisfactory education without outside help from the state or nation or both.

In addition to the lectures before the education class, Professor Parkinson twice addressed the conference for teachers of vocational education which is being sponsored by the Education College.

The lectures this week will be followed by another series next week on rural education which will be delivered by Mr. Blackwell, director of vocational education in Maryland. The first lecture will be given Monday, July 11 at the fifth hour and all students are invited to attend.

Kiwanians Raise Fund To Aid Student Loans

University Fund Is Increased by $600 as Result of Chautauqua

More than $600 has been raised for the student loan fund of the university by the Lexington Kiwanis club in promoting the Redpath chautauqua this week, according to an announcement made at the weekly meeting of the club by Dean W. S. Taylor, who was in charge of the promotion of the chautauqua for the club.

The chautauqua is an annual event with the Lexington Kiwanis club and the profits are turned over to the student loan fund each year. The committee hopes to make the total greater before the end of the week, and members of the club were asked to sell more tickets for the week's performances.

O. J. Neuwirth, superintendent of the local chautauqua, made a short talk to the club Tuesday at its weekly luncheon and commended the members for the fine work they were doing in bringing a chautauqua to Lexington and in assisting the student loan fund. He drew a comparison between the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," and the chautauqua motto, "Build for Better Citizenship."

GRADUATES WILL BUY OIL PAINTING

Members of Fayette Bar Association Lay Plans to Procure Portrait of Judge W. T. Lafferty

FOUNDED LAW COLLEGE

Plans were made last Saturday by members of the Fayette County Bar Association, who are graduates of the university Law College, to purchase an oil portrait of the late Judge W. T. Lafferty to be hung in the law building on the campus in memory of the man who was the founder and for years dean of the College of Law. A committee composed of Edward S. Dabney, chairman, Owen Reynolds and J. R. Bush was appointed to raise funds for the project.

It is planned to have the portrait painted by a well-known Italian artist from a picture of Judge Lafferty now in possession of a photographer in Georgetown. The new painting will be 24 by 30 inches.

Free Band Concerts Are Given Every Sunday at Woodland Park

Free band concerts were inaugurated at Woodland park last Sunday and will continue for the next nine weeks. The concerts are given by Griffith's Park Concert Band.

University students desiring to attend these concerts can reach the park by taking an East Main street car and getting off at the corner of Woodland avenue and East High street. For those who wish to walk to the park, the best route to Woodland is east on either High or Maxwell street. These streets converge at Woodland avenue which bounds the west side of the park.

The concerts begin at 3 o'clock each Sunday afternoon and last approximately two hours.

University Radio Station Has Worked More Than 40 States

Radio station 9 JL, of the university, which is located in the Engineering buildings to the rear of Neville hall, has worked more than 40 of the 48 states in the United States and three Canadian districts, according to L. R. Penn, of Lexington, who was graduated from the university and is now doing graduate work.

Mr. Penn and E. T. Bullock, of Lexington, who also was graduated in June, recently completed their thesis work on the subject "Study of Antenna and Counter-poise with Transmitting Sets." This work was carried on in the university station, two transmitting sets being constructed during the time.

One of these sets is rated at 15 watts while the other is a 100 watt set. Both of these sets have been used and good distances have been covered with them.

Penn and Bullock in their thesis work discovered that when sending on a 40 meter band, the greatest efficiency was obtained when operating on the 32nd harmonic of the antenna system. They were highly complimented by Dean F. Paul Anderson, of the College of Engineering.

The receiving set employed at the university station is a type CR-18 Grebe short wave receiver, 10-200 meters. A duplicate of this set, which was constructed by Mr. Penn, has also done good work on long distance stations. Amateur stations in England and France are heard regularly beginning about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and stations in Central America and Mexico begin to come in between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening.

Experiments in daylight work is being carried on by 9 JL on a 20 meter wave. Using the 15 watt set a station in San Francisco has been worked a number of times, Mr. Penn stated.

Mr. Penn, who is an experienced wireless operator, has been at the university since 1923, coming here after working at intervals for a period of six years as an operator for the R. C. A. on ships sailing to South and Central America, Mexico and Europe. He will remain at the university for several more weeks working with I. G. Watkins, an instructor in the College of Engineering.

E. T. Bullock, with whom Penn worked on antenna study, left Lexington recently for Atlanta, Ga., where a position awaited him.

Station 9 JL is now working regularly on 37.5-42.8 meter band and 18.7-21.4 meter band which are reserved for amateur C. W. telegraph.

HOCKEY FIELD FOR GIRLS WILL BE READY BY FALL

A hockey field for the intra-mural hockey games played by girls will be sowed in grass early next week by the department of buildings and grounds on the completion of grading work being done in preparing the field.

The new field is located in the rear of the music and art buildings near Boyd and Patterson halls.

ALVIN E. EVANS WILL SUCCEED TURCK IN FALL

Leaves George Washington University Law School at Take Up Work at Kentucky in September

HAS WIDE EXPERIENCE

Dr. Forrest R. Black, of Washington University, to Succeed Scarborough

Dr. Alvin E. Evans, of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., has been appointed dean of the College of Law of the university and Dr. Forrest R. Black, of Washington University, St. Louis, has been appointed professor of law, Dr. Frank L. McVey announced Tuesday. Both professors will assume their duties in September.

Dr. Evans will succeed Dean Charles J. Turck as dean of the College of Law. Dean Turck has accepted the presidency of Centre College and will assume his duties there in September. Dr. Black will be professor of law, succeeding Prof. H. J. Scarborough who tendered his resignation to accept a position in the New Jersey School of Law at Newark.

Has Wide Teaching Experience
Dr. Evans, the new dean, has been professor of law at George Washington University since 1922, coming there from the University of Idaho, where he held a similar position. Professor Evans has had a wide range of teaching experience, beginning in 1906 when he was assistant professor of Latin in the University of Washington at Seattle. During the years from 1909 to 1915, he was professor of classics in State College of Washington, and directed the summer sessions of that school from 1911 to 1915. He practiced law at Falls City, Neb., during 1916 and 1917 and was a member of the law firm of Nisbet and Evans at Moscow, Idaho, during 1918 to 1920.

Dr. Evans was graduated from Cotner University, in 1898, the same school that President A. D. Harman, of Transylvania College, attended. He received an M. A. degree from the University of Nebraska in 1898, his Ph. D. degree from the University of Michigan in 1908, the degree of doctor of jurisprudence from the University of Michigan in 1918 and attended the Harvard Law School 1915-16.

The new dean was born at Valley, Neb., September 16, 1878, and is married. He has one son, Palmer Evans. He is a member of the bars of Nebraska, Idaho, Michigan, and District of Columbia. He belongs to the American Bar Association, the Idaho State Bar Association, the American Association of University Professors, Delta Theta Phi, is a member of the Christian church and the Masonic lodge.

Dr. Black is Ph. D.
Dr. Black, who will replace Professor Scarborough, was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1916 with an A. B. degree, received his M. A. from Columbia in 1919, his LL. B. from Ohio State University in 1920 and was awarded a Ph. D. degree from the Robert Brooks Graduate School of Government in 1925.

He has taught in law schools in the University of Minnesota, Washington University, Heidelberg College and the University of Iowa. He was admitted to the bar in Ohio and practiced in that state.

Dr. Evans is well known in the legal world for his many contributions to various law journals. He is the author of a work entitled "Roman Law Studies in Livy," published in 1910; was joint author of volume four of Michigan Studies in Humanistic Series published in 1910; and compiled a set of cases on community property.

Ohio State Puts End To All Frosh Hazing

Change in Policy Notified at Wisconsin, New Hampshire and Cincinnati

Columbus.—Any man who is in any way connected with throwing a freshman in the lake will sever his connection with this university. With this preemptory statement, President George W. Rightmire, of Ohio State University, announced the end of freshman hazing at the institution. Hazing may soon be as much a thing of the past in the colleges as old fashioned peg-top trousers, recent college events seem to indicate. "Freshman rules and sophomore traditions are giving way before an enlightened upper-class sentiment to the effect that freshmen have a right to be treated as human beings," reports The Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin. The freshman and sophomore classes at the University of New Hampshire have modified the traditional freshman rules.

Hazing has been abolished at Capital University (Columbus, Ohio). At the University of Cincinnati "frosh tanning" gives way to training. The student council has dissolved the vigilance committee and supplanted it by the men's and women's guidance committees, who are to train the beginner in rudiments of University of Cincinnati traditions and campus rules.

PARKING

In general, campus problems, as such, either don't exist or are of much smaller proportions during the summer session than in the regular term. But there is one very weighty campus problem which summer school students must face—the parking problem.

During the regular sessions the parking problem is a complicated one. Last year university authorities worried and worked over the problem, but without reaching any definite results. The Kernel feels that the situation is vastly more worrisome now than it was last spring.

Especially does it seem that the situation must be improved near the Education building. Not infrequently cars are parked too deep on one side of the road and one deep on the other side. Between classes in the morning the drive is often blocked at this point and many times when cars meet at a narrow point in the road one of the machines has to back up and wait. In addition to this, there is considerable personal peril involved. Will it take a serious accident to wake us up to the problem?

Many universities have found it necessary to forbid automobiles on their campuses. That plan is hardly practicable at the present time because of the hardships it would work on some. University officials are now working on a plan which will probably take care of the situation in the future. The question now is, however, what is to be done at the present.

It seems that the question is largely up to the student body. If students and faculty cooperate, the problem can be solved — temporarily at least. It seems absurd for a normal, healthy man or woman to drive two or three blocks and park his car on the campus. But if those students who are accustomed to do this would cease to drive to school, the problem would be greatly clarified.

As to those students for whom there is real reason for driving to school, The Kernel recommends that they too cooperate. It is a simple matter to drive a little farther on the campus and avoid parking double in front of the Education building. In fact, it would be an excellent plan to park on only one side of the drive. There is plenty of room farther back on the campus, or if not, Winslow street and Lexington avenue afford ample parking space within close proximity of the campus.

The problem is up to students and faculty members who drive to school. It can be solved easily if every one will do his part. And in the name of safety, as well as convenience and common sense, let's solve the problem before it's too late.

DISCUSS PICNIC PLANS

A number of former students of Western State Normal School and Teachers' College at Bowling Green, gathered in room 204 of the Education building yesterday afternoon to discuss plans for a picnic to be given in the near future and to renew old friendships.

PREVIEWS OF LOCAL SHOWS

STRAND THEATER

"THE FIRST NIGHT"

"The First Night," a Tiffany production which will be shown for the last time at the Strand Theater today, is said to be one of the best laugh-provoking pictures that has been seen here in some time.

"FRISCO SALLY LEVY"

Kate Price plays Mrs. Lapidowitz in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new comedy romance "Frisco Sally Levy," coming Sunday for three days at the Strand Theater with Sally O'Neil in the title role. As the overworked mother of a big family, Miss Price had her hands full with real housework—and it had to be actually done for the camera. The new picture is a lighthearted comedy of Jewish-Irish life in San Francisco with Miss O'Neil in the title role and a cast that includes Roy D'Arcy, Charles Delaney, Kate Price, Tenen Holtz, Helen Levine, Leon Holmes, and Turner Savage.

"THE FRONTIERSMAN"

The most unusual Indian battle scenes will be seen in "The Frontiersman," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production coming Wednesday for three days at the Strand Theater. The story, an original by Madeline Ruthven and Ross Wills, is based upon the stirring frontier days of the South when Andrew Jackson and his Tennessee militia completely crushed the power of the Creek Indian Confederacy in 1813.

BEN ALI THEATER

"PERCH OF THE DEVIL"

One of the commonest and most tragic situations in modern life, that of the married couple who suddenly acquire great riches and find that their wealth is estranging them is the story told in "Perch of the Devil," King Baggot's latest Universal production which is the feature at the Ben Ali Theater today and Saturday. In addition to the picture, the Cornell University Orchestra and two other acts of vodvil will be presented. The number promises to be especially good.

"QUICKSANDS"

The clash between a band of desperate outlaws and the U. S. army, exponents of law and order on the frontier of the west will be seen as a chapter in the march of progress when "Quicksands," starring Richard Dix, comes Sunday to the Ben Ali Theater. Dix plays the role of the dashing young army officer stationed in an isolated army post, who finds himself embroiled with a gang of smugglers.

KENTUCKY THEATER

"HIGH HAT"

"High Hat," the name of the hilarious burlesque on the movies, produced by Robert T. Kane for First National release with Ben Lyon, Mary Brian and Sam Hardy featured, is at the Kentucky Theater this weekend.

It is an original story by James Ashmore Creelman, who not only made the adaptation and prepared the continuity, but also directed the picture. Incidentally, "High Hat" was Mr. Creelman's first directorial achievement and, according to all accounts, a most noteworthy start in this field for the young scenarist, who was largely responsible for the foundation of the Film Guild and who for two years was associated with John Emerson and Anita Loos as a writer.

"Lost at the Front," which was produced by Frank Griffin, is to be the attraction at the Kentucky Theater Sunday through Wednesday. It is an entirely new type of World War comedy, and it deals with a new locale: the Russo-German front. Among its unusual features is the appearance of the famous Russian women soldiery, the "Battalion of Death," which figures in some of the most fun-provoking scenes.

In addition, four numbers on the Vitaphone will be presented. These numbers will be by Sylvia Froos, Roger Kahn and his orchestra in a new act, Werrenrath, baritone, singing "Duna" and "On the Road to Mandalay," and Van and Schenk, in a new act.

FEW STUDENTS QUALIFIED FOR THE STUDY OF LAW

But I do say that unless one is willing to fight and overcome certain difficul ties in the practice of the law, he ought not enter the legal profession. What are these difficulties? First, there is the task of thinking. Most people find thinking an extremely un pleasant occupation, a fact which ac counts for the tabloid newspaper, cer tain film successes and the deserted condition of most libraries. The pop ular idea of the lawyer is a man who talks a great deal, but the true pic ture of a lawyer is a man who thinks a great deal. Unless one enjoys the habit of climbing the windy heights of cold reason, he should not study law. For however much some law yers may fall short of this ideal, the responsibility of attorney to client re quires the most exacting and pen etrating thought. He is a poor lawyer who does not think through his cases before he talks them out in court.

Second, there is the task of fight ing. I do not mean physical combat, but that struggle in the arena of he courts which puts to the test all that a man has of nervous and moral and intellectual control. Not every law yer is great in a court room, but un less a young man is qualified to stand his ground in the battle of wits that marks the modern trial, he is not likely to achieve greatness in any other field of the legal profession. Some men shrink from controversy as from physical danger. A great lawyer does not seek controversy but he does not shrink from it. He meets whatever comes in the way of argument, crit icism or attack. It takes a certain amount of physical courage to stand up against the advocate who persists in ridicule or in innuendoes or in blat tant falsehoods, and still be master of the situation. A client has the right to expect of his counselor and ad vocate utter forgetfulness of self and complete devotion to the client's cause. Only a man of courage can meet that test.

Must Bear Others' Burdens
Thirdly, there is the task of bur den bearing. Unless a young man de lights to share the burdens of others, he will find the practice of the law a wearisome undertaking. If the trou bles of others annoy instead of in terest you your license to practice law would be simply an invitation for further and ceaseless annoyance. But if in college days your friends have brought to you their difficulties be cause they have found in you a sym pathetic hearer and a wise counsellor, the practice of the law opens the door for you to a larger and more respon sible share in working out the problems of others. The great task of the law yer is not to win lawsuits but to settle difficulties. The public sees the courtroom and the trial; many times that cannot be avoided. But the best service of the lawyer is rendered where the public cannot see, and the client recalls his attorney not as he argued for him in court, but more often as he counselled with him in the office. An attorney must be a bearer of burdens, or else he becomes a mere promoter of strife.

There are other difficulties, but these suffice. Young men of reason ably good judgment, of firm courage and of unselfish zeal will find an hon ored place at the bar toward which they can patiently struggle. This place of honor seldom comes to them soon or easily, but it comes surely to those whose wisdom, courage and service entitle them to the crown. The Law welcomes such men to its shrine.
